David:

I was just in the process of laying out my calendar in detail for the next two months when this came. Accounting for assorted distractions including meeting with Starr, I am estimating that I will need 19 calendar days to complete what remains on formaldehyde (analysis of leukemia data, revising appendices, text on endogenous based unit risk etc. Thus this will take me until Dec 28.

I also need to include time for discussions and writing stuff on scoping/PF. With this included, Jan 7 is a reasonable estimate.

I am done with what I expected to contribute on Chromium for now. It will not take time from formaldehyde.

Ravi.

Ravi,

When will you have completed your contributions to formaldehyde?
